DISCLAIMER

Education Advisers Ltd endeavours to make all of its school, college and University recommendations, opinions and observations in good faith and we try to visit as many schools and colleges as possible ourselves. However, we are unable to guarantee admissions, which is the sole responsibility of each school or University. Further, we cannot guarantee the academic performance or quality of behaviour or pastoral care at the school or University in any way. Schools all have their own policies which are usually communicated to you at the time you accept their contract and which are inspected by UK Education Regulators (such as ISI and OFSTED.) These will include, inter alia, provisions on the timely payment of school fees, pupil conduct, social care and procedures by which they may exclude children from school. We strongly advise you to read their Terms and Conditions before accepting a place and signing a contract. We accept no responsibility for the terms of operation of the contracts of schools, colleges or Universities.
